This just because Breaking Ground expansion haven't got any updates which adds new stuff, yet.

For example:

- Those rails are handy when you want build base but exact height of docking port is a problem. You could to this with parts we currently have but it gets really messy/unstable pretty quick.
- I made robotic hand with stock robotics, tried to make exact copy of science scanning arm, but because you have to use seperately hinge and servo, arm grows too big and has lot of bending joints.
