Description

There are many times I end up in a plane on the KSC peninsula beyond the south side of the KSC campus. It is doable but dangerous to drive a plane up the 3 meter slope all around KSC (especially considering the new wheel stress issues) -- except at the west end of the runway. That ramp is always safe.

It is somewhat annoying to have to drive all the way around the KSC campus to the west end of the runway to find a ramp that I can actually drive up. It would be really nice if there were another not-so-steep ramp on the other side of KSC from the runway.
